Meandering Along the Main Stem

By WASH FAYETTE

I am wondering if there is a real buckeye tree in Washington C. H. . . . right now I do not know of a single one, although there are numerous horse chestnut trees which are generally mistaken for buckeyes.

Now I presume a half dozen residents will show up with buckeyes just to prove that I don't know the city very well . . . anyway I am willing to be shown.

Personally I know of only two real buckeye trees in Fayette County, although there are probably many more . . . these stand in the yard of the old abandoned Walnut Creek Church a couple of miles southeast of New Martinsburg.

Those two trees are the fabled, or native Ohio buckeyes, while the numerous horse chestnut trees in the city and county are from a family of horse chestnuts which originally came from Constantinople (now Istanbul) Turkey, at the beginning of the 16th century and are widely scattered over both hemispheres.

The horse chestnuts derive their name from the fact that they are said to have been formerly used as food for horses.

I recently gathered quite a number of the buckeyes from the trees near New Martinsburg, and have been passing them out to interested friends.

It has been surprising to me to find that many men already are carrying a buckeye in their pocket for good luck, to ward off rheumatism, or something. One man with rheumatism showed me two horse chestnuts he had been carrying, and when I pointed out the fact that they were not buckeyes, he threw them away and is now carrying a real buckeye. Most of those supposed to be carrying buckeyes had horse chestnuts.

While the two kinds of nuts belong to the same family, there is considerable difference in the trees, leaves and nuts.

I don't believe it was premeditated but just happened when the Democratic Executive Committee of Fayette County had its large sign placed over the front of headquarters opened in North Fayette Street in the room formerly occupied by the American Budget Company.

The new sign blots out "Budget Company" but left the two-foot high lettering "American" across the front, so that the present reading is "American Democratic headquarters."

I called "Doc" Ireland's attention to the sign and found he had already noticed the combination of words formed by the two signs.

One of these days, maybe very soon, Washington C. H. and Fayette County will receive an air-raid alarm. Civilian Defense Council members are hoping that the public will be ready for it but they are somewhat skeptical. Several cities in Ohio have had unexpected practice calls and results have been anything but satisfactory in most cases.

Maybe the warning when it comes here will be only a practice alarm—but who knows but what it may be the real thing?

We wonder how many people who have been asked to serve in some capacity and who have shown no interest, afterward will have some alibi?

BETTER RECAPS PROMISED AS NEW PROCESS FOUND

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 7.—(AP)—A new chemical process for reclaiming rubber was announced today by John M. Bierer, factory manager of the Boston Woven Hose & Rubber Company, who said that it would make possible automobile tire recaps with a life of 18,000 miles or more, in contrast with 5,000 to 10,000 miles for redaps made by existing methods.

The company, which does not manufacture tires, said that while it had patented the formula, the process would be made available to reclaiming companies without payment of royalties for the duration of the war.

A new struggle for the prize Guadalcanal air base in the Solomon Islands apparently was developing today, with U. S. Marines battling freshly landed Japanese forces, while on the New Guinea front Australian troops pressed their 10-day-old pursuit of the retreating Japanese.

Striving to halt mounting and costly losses inflicted on their air and navy strength by American planes operating from the base, the Japanese under cover of darkness have enlarged their Guadalcanal forces but at the further expense of 11 planes and a damaged heavy cruiser.

The landing of enemy reinforcements was reported by the Navy to have been accomplished on October 3 and 4. In doing so they raised their total losses in the two-months old battle of the Solomons to 230 aircraft destroyed and 30 vessels sunk or damaged.

Latest dispatches indicated the Australians had recaptured the strategic mile-high gap in the Owen Stanley Range and were pushing on toward the downslope to the Japanese base at Kokoda, 120 miles from Port Moresby.

Australian advance forces moving into the Owen Stanley Mountains of New Guinea in the wake of steadily withdrawing Japanese were reported today to have

House Committee Blames
Army and Navy

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—(AP)—The army and navy, and not the forthcoming elections, were blamed by members of the House military committee today for delay in holding hearings on legislation to lower the draft age from 20 to 18.

Apparently irritated by widely circulated suggestions that the hearings were being held for political reasons, members said they were willing to begin consideration of the bill, introduced last month by Representative Wadsworth (R-NY), but were awaiting recommendations from the war and navy departments and Selective Service.

Nazis Start Reign of Terror in Norway

LONDON, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Nazi Commissioner Josef Terboven and new contingents of the German secret police enforced a reign of terror in the Norwegian province of Trondheim today after executing 10 prominent Norwegians and arresting an estimated 700 more in an effort to stem a rising tide of sabotage, reports to Scandinavian circles said.

A state of emergency has been proclaimed in Trondheim and a coastal strip 400 miles long. Terboven announced several punishment would follow insubordination.

Announcing that the new measures were instituted to "break the sabotage threatening the country's supply system," Terboven was reported to have declared:

"My generosity is finished. Nothing will change my uncompromising decision to smash the enemy's manipulations and provocations."

A Stockholm radio report intimated that hostile action had been directed against the German army and that efforts had been made to sabotage the Trondheim-Mosjoen railway.

A power station at Tannrem also had been dynamited, shutting off power and forcing the Germans to stop work at a naval base under construction, London reports said. Shipyard workers were forbidden to leave the yards.

A score of followers of Nazi-backed Premier Cidkun Quisling were arrested on charges they were not sufficiently active for the Nazis, Scandinavian circles here reported.

The tide of resentment against German domination swept little Denmark into the storm and Danish sources here expressed the fear the nation would vanish soon into a German federation of North Sea countries.

Stockholm dispatches to a London newspaper said the Germans had demanded from King Christian X control of the Danish police and key posts in the Ministry of Justice. Other reports said the Danes had declined a German invitation to become a "model state" in a Nazi Europe.

The inter-Allied information committee reported food stocks of the occupied countries had been plundered so thoroughly by the Germans that many peoples were on a starvation diet. The Belgians were reported living mainly on bread and turnips.

NAZIS DIG IN

had virtually wiped out a German wedge in the northwest suburbs and crushed a series of ten assaults along the 40-mile northern barrier.

"The enemy is drawing up fresh forces and hurling them into battle immediately after marching," the Russian command announced in its noon communique.

Red army reinforcements also were reported to have moved up during the night to meet the swelling Nazi siege forces.

Dispatches to Red Star said a dangerous situation developed as the Germans reached the depth of an industrial settlement—evidently in the northwest suburbs where the main battle raged—but said Soviet counter-attacks cleared much of the district.

At least 1,200 German troops were reported killed in fighting for the Volga metropolis yesterday, many of them going to their deaths directly after forced marches from the rear.

Northwest of the city, Marshal Semeon Timoshenko's relief offensive was reported to have gained fresh ground against the Nazi left flank—the vital barricade which guards the main German siege army.

Dispatches to Izvestia, the Russian government newspaper, said that Nazi infantrymen were little more than skeletons.

BRICKER ACCUSED OF EXTRAVAGANCE

Accuser Counter-accused of Same Thing

MANSFIELD, Oct. 7.—(AP)—State Rep. John L. Catlett, Republican, today expressed "great surprise" over State Rep. Lody Huml's assertion that Ohio would have a $100,000,000 treasury surplus but for the extravagance of Republican Governor John W. Bricker's administration.

Huml, a Cuyahoga County Democrat, in a letter to members of the Ohio House of Representatives earlier this week charged the Bricker administration spent $88,000,000 more during its first three years than its predecessor and accused the governor of "gypping local governments of their just share of the sales tax" in accumulating a surplus.

Catlett admitted costs of state government had increased, but asserted that had Huml-approved legislation been carried out, "the state would have spent approximately $20,410,500 more this biennium than will have been expended."

FARM INCOME

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—(AP)—The Agriculture Department forecast today that farmers would receive about $16,000,000,000 from their products in 1943 compared with $15,000,000,000 this year.

WAR CRIMINALS TO BE PUNISHED

First Fayette Countian To Enlist in WAAC

Miss Janet Arnold

Miss Janet Arnold, the daughter of Mrs. Warren W. Young, of the Robinson Road, today holds the distinction of being the first woman in Fayette County to enlist in the Women's Auxiliary Army Corps—commonly known as the WAAC.

Miss Arnold signed up for the WAAC's last month, she has just disclosed, but has not yet received her call for active service. She expects to report for duty at the Des Moines, Ia., camp when she gets her call.

Miss Arnold, who makes her home much of the time with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Fuels, is a graduate of Madison Mills High School. She later attended Santa Anna Junior College in Santa Anna, Calif.

Before enlisting in the WAAC, Miss Arnold was the bookkeeper for the Sagar Dairy.

Farm Production Goal To Be Raised

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Faced with increasing demands for food, the Agriculture Department has drawn up tentative production goals for the 1943 crop season calling for even greater acreages and output of most farm products than was requested under the record 1942 production program.

Officials who preferred not to be named said increases would be asked despite prospects that farmers would have to get along with less manpower, machinery, fertilizer and other facilities.

Needs of the armed forces and the Allies, particularly Russia, were said to be much greater than had been expected a few weeks ago.

As a hedge against the possibility farmers might be unable to meet the 1943 goals, the department was working on plans to reduce civilian consumption of a number of essential foods.

Preparatory to consumer rationing to be inaugurated the first of the year, the government has asked civilians to limit meat consumption to two and a half pounds a week. Butter, cheese, cooking fats, vegetable oils, eggs, poultry and canned fruits and vegetables may be placed in the same class with meat.

Only in the case of three crops—wheat, short staple cotton and commercial vegetables—are tentative goals below those set for 1942.

The tentative goals call for increases in the production of cattle, hogs, dairy products, poultry and eggs, corn and other feed grains, dry beans and peas, peanuts for vegetable oil, potatoes, sugar beets, hemp, vegetables for processing and long staple cotton.

Goals identical with this year's are planned for soybeans for vegetable oil, sugar cane and flaxseed.

MEDAL IS AWARDED TO VERN HAUGLAND BY GEN. MACARTHUR

A. P. Newsman's Fortitude While Lost 'Inspiration'

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA, Oct. 3.—(Delayed)—(AP)—The U. S. Army's silver star was pinned upon the pajamas of Associated Press correspondent, Vern Haugland, by General Douglas MacArthur today in an unprecedented recognition of civilian courage.

Pausing on a visit to the New Guinea war front, General MacArthur made the award at the hospital tent where Haugland is recovering from exhaustion and fever after 43 days spent fighting his way out of the mountainous jungle into which he parachuted from a bomber Aug. 7.

"I am awarding you the silver star as an outward symbol of the devotion and fortitude with which you have done your duty," the commander told the lean, 34-year-old newspaperman.

"I can't tell you how much we have been inspired by your getting back after such tribulations and hardships."

THAT'S PLEDGE MADE BY FOR

Fair Trials Not Reprisals
To Be Held After War;
U. S. To Cooperate

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—(AP)—President Roosevelt asserted today the United States was prepared to cooperate in establishing a United Nations Commission, after the war, for the investigation of war crimes of the Axis and said it was the intention to mete out just and sure punishment to "ringleaders responsible for the organized murder of thousands of innocent persons and the commission of atrocities."

It is the intention of the United States, he said in a formal statement, that "the successful close of the war shall include provision for the surrender to the United Nations of war criminals."

With a view to establishing the responsibility of the guilty individuals through the collection and assessment of an available evidence, Mr. Roosevelt said, this government is prepared to cooperate with the British and other governments in establishing a United Nations investigating committee.

Declaring that it was not the intention to resort to mass reprisals, the chief executive predicted the number of persons eventually found guilty undoubtedly would be extremely small compared to the total enemy populations.

Presidential Secretary Stephen Early, who distributed Mr. Roosevelt's statement, failed to answer a question as to whether Hitler and Mussolini were two of the ringleaders whose surrender would be required.

Mr. Roosevelt recalled that he said last August 21 that the government constantly was receiving information about "barbaric crimes" being committed by the enemy against civilians in occupied lands, especially on the European continent.

"The commission of these crimes continues," the president said, adding:

WILLKIE DEMANDS ALL-OUT OFFENSE

CHUNGKING, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Wendell Willkie called upon the United Nations today for an "all-out armed offensive everywhere" and said he expected to dedicate his life to urging a post-war world "where all men can be free and with governments of their own choosing."

"It is my personal opinion that the time has come for an all-out armed offensive everywhere by all United Nations," Willkie said in a statement on his tour of 13 nations. "We are ready to deliver some knockout punches if I can believe what I have seen with my own eyes."

Willkie issued his statement only a few hours after he had a six-hour conference with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, his fourth meeting with the Chinese leader.

Willkie returned to the generalissimo's home for a fifth conference today after his morning press conference.

Propaganda From Enemy

ROME (From Italian Broadcasts), Oct. 7.—(AP)—The Rome radio broadcast a Tokyo announcement today that an American submarine had sunk a 7,000-ton Japanese vessel on October 1 in the South China Sea.

It said there were about 1,800 English and Australian prisoners aboard the vessel en route to Japan but many hundreds were saved by two Japanese vessels.

Told To Evacuate Places
Of War Work—Yanks Ready, Is Tip

LONDON, Oct. 7.—(AP)—The BBC broadcast a United States warning today that French people should evacuate places where work is being done for the Germans because of increasing American air attacks on France.

The warning followed another night raid on Osnabrueck, German industrial and railway city, by heavy bombers of the RAF last night—the second on the enemy homeland in a row and the fourth in six nights.

This hint of more United States air smashes on occupied France came also as the House of Commons was looking into a comparison of losses for the RAF and the United States Flying Fortresses of which two have been lost in more than a dozen daylight raids.

Sheriff Harland has declined to talk with reporters since the governor announced his warning Monday, Prosecutor Bostwick

GASOLINE TRAIN BURNS IN OHIO

Of Beds in House Near
B. & O. Railroad

BELLAIRE, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Seventeen freight cars loaded with drums of gasoline were destroyed in a spectacular explosion-punctuated fire after a train was derailed on the Baltimore & Ohio's main line seven miles west of here today.

No one was injured, although the first explosion tossed a family in a nearby home from bed.

A fireman, protected only by a heavy raincoat, crept to the train, uncoupled four gasoline loaded cars that had not yet caught fire, and a locomotive pulled them to safety.

The fire broke out with a terrific blast at 5:19 A. M. and raged out of control three hours. A quarter mile of track was destroyed and B. & O. traffic was re-routed. Railroad men said it would take 24 hours to clear the roadbed and replace melted rails and burned ties.

Gasoline Rationing Plans To Be Discussed Here

THE WAR TODAY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

British Are Astonished By Behavior of Yanks; Morals Are 'Very Good'

(The World News Service)
LONDON, Oct. 7.—This is a friendly, intimate message to the folks back home about the moral welfare of their boys in the Army over here and it is good to be able to say right at the start that while there are some rather spotty places you can rest easy in your minds.

I figured you'd be anxious to know how things are going and were entitled to the facts about a subject that is very close to the hearts of all of us. I had heard stories and observed some things which, while not of vast importance in themselves, set me to thinking.

So I've been looking about a bit and talking with Army people who know how the battle of morals really goes.

I got away to a good start through a chance word dropped by Lieut. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower during a conversation with him. It is not permitted to quote him but his remark was in effect condemnation of loose living and showed clearly his abhorrence of that sort of thing.

Since then I have run across plenty of evidence that the AEF commander in chief is indeed a clean liver and sets an exemplary standard for his men. It is small wonder, then, that we find the vast majority of them keeping step with him and members of his staff who make it their business to try to keep stragglers from falling out of line.

Right here, and before we discuss those spotty places, I'd like to introduce the testimony of two distinguished officers immediately associated with the welfare of our boys.

First meet Colonel James L. Blakeney, kindly-faced, business-like chaplain-in-chief, who tells me General Eisenhower "backs his chaplains up 100 percent."

Here is his summary of the position of morality among our troops in the British Isles.

"On the whole our standard is very, very high. There's no more letting down of moral standards than there was at home."

Then there is Colonel P. B. Rogers, headquarters commandant.

"There's no problem with our boys," he told me in his crisp, incisive language. They're well-disciplined, well-behaved. They are an amazing lot. The British people are astonished at their good manners. They are fine gentlemen."

"The trouble in London relates to one percent."

And what about London? Well, it's no worse than any other great metropolis in wartime and it's better than many. Wherever there are a lot of troops there will be an army of bad girls following them. That probably has been true since the first primitive army went into the field.

So London has a host of huntresses, some of them shockingly young, who chase every soldier on sight. The same is true of some lesser British towns.

The streets are always full of soldiers of many countries who are on leave or off duty for a few hours. Among them are some of our Yankee boys and a few of them succumb to the blandishments of camp followers—that would be the one percent of which the Colonel spoke.

I quizzed him about that one percent and questioned the chaplain about it, too. Just as my observation had led me to believe, this tiny percentage of backsliders who allow themselves to associate with some of the toughest, most slovenly women of the streets represents the men who have no

HIGHWAY MEN ARE TO COME FRIDAY NIGHT

Mayors of Villages and Other Officials To Take Part in Conference

In preparation for pending rationing of gasoline, City Manager Edwin Ducey has offered his office to the Ohio War Transportation Committee of Division Six of the State Highway Department for a meeting Friday night, to discuss with the mayors of Fayette County plans for coordinating the War Transportation program on a county wide basis.

J. P. Shumaker

Announcements of this important meeting have gone out to mayors of the county. The meeting Friday at 8 P. M. will be to discuss the county's problems.

J. Perry Shumaker, Chief Engineer of Division Six, who is coordinator of all Division War transportation conservation activities in his Division, will be present to speak on the Department's plan of voluntary ride sharing and other phases of the transportation program.

Also present to address the group will be Robert E. Holladay, Division Six Traffic Engineer, who will handle all technical matters in connection with surveys of hours, employees, transportation facilities, vehicular movement and all other engineering matters.

Others have been invited to attend the meeting, which is regarded as important in connection with defense plans as well as gasoline rationing.

Representatives of the transportation committee, truckers, labor, P.T.A. organizations and school officials of the city and county are also asked to attend the meeting.

breeding and weren't much good back home.

"When you raise an army of a million men you don't go into their morals," remarked the Colonel dryly. "You get a mixture of all sorts, from extremely religious to the bad."

"You can't raise a man's morals by putting a uniform on him. A good boy in our army can keep good. He is given every opportunity for good environment. But you can't say he must stay beside a piano and sing songs."

Rogers explained a lot of the difficulty in London was due to bad bootleg liquor which is being circulated.

Chaplain Blakeney was quite clear on the point that the situation here is no worse than it has been in America.

"There are a lot of girls in Piccadilly," he said grudgingly, "but there have been the same conditions around our camps in America."

MORE THAN 150 ATTEND MEETING OF DEMOCRATS

Various Speakers Discuss Political Issues of Campaign

More than 150 persons attended the Democratic meeting held at Memorial Hall, Tuesday night and presided over by R. M. Winegardner, chairman of the Fayette County Democratic Executive Committee.

Congressman Stephen Young of Cleveland, who was scheduled to deliver the main address, was recalled to Washington Tuesday and was unable to appear.

O. P. Van Schoik, of the State Auditor's Office, was the main speaker of the evening, and all were deeply interested in his discussion of the political issues generally.

He said that in 1932 the national farm income was about five billions of dollars and this year it will be about 14 billions of dollars.

He spoke of the big surplus in the State Treasury and its effect upon local taxing districts, most of which are short of revenue.

In the State Treasury at the close of business Tuesday, he said, was $59,000,000 in the general revenue fund that has been accumulating and not used.

Van Schoik also called attention to provisions of the Ohio Constitution which declares that no tax shall be levied unless for a specific purpose and said that all emergency tax measures passed during the depression are still in force and funds being collected and stored in the treasury.

Captain George H. Smith, congressional candidate on the Democratic ticket, spoke briefly, as well as Warren Huchison, candidate for county commissioner.

County Auditor Roy Baughn told how, through equitable adjustment of tax distribution, all of the subdivisions of the county had been able to meet their obligations and live within their income.

He also stated that the big reserve held in the state treasury, has resulted in local taxing districts including some schools, being handicapped for want of funds, and special levies made in some school districts.

He said the funds being held by the state should be distributed, or the taxes lowered.

Loren Hynes, candidate for representative, also gave a short address, and set forth his qualifications to fill the position of representative, and that while serving seven years as deputy county auditor, he had become imbued with the idea that Fayette County should have a representative, who would not be a "yes man," but one who would work for the best interests of the county.

Patty Rae Cabbage sang two songs, "I Threw A Kiss in the Ocean" and "Easter Parade," with Miss Christine Switzer accompanying at the piano.

Announcement was made that John McSweeney, Democratic candidate for governor, will speak here October 15 at 10 A. M. and Joseph Ferguson, State Auditor, on October 21.

COAL TRUCKER PLEADS GUILTY TO TWO CHARGES

Short Weight of Coal and Failure To Give Tax Stamps Charged

Floyd Shepherd, Ray, in Jackson County, pleaded guilty to two charges filed in Justice George Worrell's Court, Tuesday night, and was fined $50 on one charge and $25 on the other.

The first charge against Shepherd was that he sold 1590 pounds of coal to Ellen Brandon, a blind woman, for 4,000 pounds. John Lytle had previously been fined $25 and costs on the same offense.

Shepherd pleaded guilty to the short weight charge and Justice Worrell promptly fined him $50 and the costs.

The second charge was for evading the sales tax law by failing to give Mrs. Brannon sales tax receipts in the short weight transaction. The charges had been prepared by Robert Gregg, tax inspector for this district.

Shepherd was fined $25 and costs on the second charge and he and his brother arranged to pay the entire amount later this week.

The next regular meeting of Fayette County Pomona Grange will be held at Good Hope, Thursday evening, with Good Hope Grange as host.

A short literary program will be in charge of the Pomona lecturer, W. J. Hilty.

The business session will probably include some discussion of the coming election and the importance of exercising the right of franchise. Since this is the year for the election of a new state legislature, prospective legislation affecting agriculture will also come in for a share of discussion.

MRS. OLLIE CURTISS CLAIMED BY DEATH

Funeral Services Will Be Held Friday at 2 P. M.

Mrs. Ollie G. Curtiss, widow of the late J. H. Curtiss, died at 12:30 P. M. Wednesday at home of Mrs. Jennie Rader, 1013 South Hinde Street. Mrs. Curtiss was 85 years old and had been in ill health for the past four weeks.

Born and reared in Fayette

County, she had spent most of her life a resident of Dayton up until the death of her husband ten years ago, at which time she returned to this city to make her home. She was a member of the Church of Christ.

Mrs. Curtiss is survived by one brother, George L. Grove, of near Bainbridge, and two sisters, Mrs. Joanna Faulk, of Columbus, and Mrs. Minnie J. Sturgeon, of the Greenfield road.

The Hook Funeral Home is in charge of the arrangements and friends may call there at any time. The funeral will be held there Friday at 2 P. M.

Burial will be made in the Sugar Grove Cemetery.

SOUNDS UNREASONABLE

Walter Reuther, who seems to be the automobile union's principal spokesman, has warned the War Labor Board that labor is restive. He made no threats, but said as a fact that a wage raise and economic security are prerequisites to peace on the automotive labor front, war or no war.

When he spoke the average weekly pay envelopes in the automobile industry was 51.07 for a 43.5-hour week. The average weekly envelope in the aircraft industry, also a UAW-CIO stronghold, was $44.98 for a 47.7 hour average week. The "union security" phrase meant closed shop.

So, says Mr. Reuther, without a raise and a closed shop, he doesn't think his men can keep their minds on the war. Does the membership subscribe to this viewpoint?

COFFEE AND YOUR GROCER

We talked to a Washington C. H. grocer the other day and he was pretty badly peeved over what he termed the "unreasonable attitude" of a number of people who appeared to blame him because he could not supply them with coffee when they asked for it. Some of these people, he said, were not regular customers but had been going from store to store in an effort to get all the coffee they could buy.

Probably we are a rather unappreciative people. Doubtless it is true that for years we have relaxed in the lap of comfortable luxury and now do some loud squawking when the shoe of necessity pinches us a little.

Perhaps it is true that a lot of us do not realize sufficiently that we are engaged in a double war with the fate of our nation in the balance. But we doubt if most people want to pursue their merry way without sacrificing anything to the war effort.

The trouble is that the griping and testy complaints of a comparatively few people sometimes sound like the majority was ablaze with intolerant objections. Most people are willing to do their part but a few can make things so uncomfortable for everybody that they sound like the whole nation was super-critical. We are buying bonds and working overtime in the factories, but when it comes to changing our personal habits there are some, a minority we believe, who complain.

Take this question of coffee shortage as an example. The other day a certain

Hints on Etiquette

If you are talking to a friend or business associate and another person wishes to speak to you, make an end of, or pause in, your conversation and listen to what the third person has to say. It is embarrassing for this party to stand waiting for a break in the conversation and to be ignored.

Today's Horoscope

A sharp, intuitive mind is characteristic of those who have birthdays today. They have strong reasoning powers, high ideals and the ability to speak well before others. They are generous to a fault and fond of reading. They should not marry too young and should choose their mates with care. They are threatened in the next year with unexpected upheavals, estrangements or separations, probably concerning business matters. Some good luck will materialize, however. They should be careful with documents and when traveling. Exceptionally clever and far-seeing will be the child who is born today, but some danger exists of trouble by others. Business associates should be chosen with care.

grocer was unable to fill the demands of his customers. He tried to explain that shipments from Brazil had been curtailed sharply by the war and that he was placed on a rationing basis. The customer was skeptical and remarked that he thought it was the fault of the grocer and the wholesaler.

Such an attitude is a silly one. The grocer is in a tough spot today with certain food products taken off the market. He has a difficult task and it will get worse as requirements for our armed forces increase. The grocer depends on his sales to make a living, and he wants to stay in business. He is the purchasing agent for the customer and if he is unable to obtain coffee, tea, salmon or other canned goods don't place the blame on him. The powers that be in Washington fix the quotas. If you can't get a pound of coffee today grin and bear it because tomorrow will be another day.

New Remedy in Use for Cases of Psoriasis

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
PSORIASIS is a skin disease which is very annoying to the people who have it, and the first thing that any one of them tells you about it is that they have tried thousands of remedies and none of them does any good. This is a pardonable exaggeration.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

tion, but not strictly true. It is true that there are a great many remedies for psoriasis, but all of them do some good because it is a recurrent rather than a chronic or progressive disease. It is likely to come on in the fall and winter and practically disappear during the spring and summer.

Many different things aggravate it. "Nerves" is one. For instance, I have heard of one patient who was a student aviator. There was no flying due to bad weather in February and his psoriasis almost got well. But as the time for his first solo test flight came up, he got nervous and his skin eruption became quite active and widespread.

Remedies
All this being true and the nature of the malady being what it is, many remedies help it at least temporarily and if it is understood that any remedy I recommend is not put out as a complete cure, and if it does no harm, I am willing to mention the new ones as they come up.

The newest, then, is one of the oldest remedies known to the old housewives—none other than the great spring tonic, sarsaparilla. To this day I do not know what sarsaparilla does as a spring tonic, nor what its action is. It seems to have some influence on fat, and while this may partially explain its action in psoriasis, it tells nothing about it as a spring tonic. The sarsaparilla now used is a special product, preferably from Honduras, prepared in the form of tablets. Since the whole problem is so much in the experimental stage, we feel they should be given under the direction of a physician. They should be taken faithfully for quite a period of time.

Diet
A diet low in fat will prove beneficial for quite a large number of patients. Liquids to the amount of two or three quarts a day besides the regular amounts used at the table are recommended as an adjunct to treatment.

There is no reason why local treatments such as the patient is used to cannot be given along with the sarsaparilla tablets. This includes irradiation with an ultraviolet lamp, tonic and ointment, lanolin, olive oil, salicylate and sulphur ointments and modified coal tars.

When use of this sarsaparilla was first given a trial, however, no other treatment was given, in order to make sure it was the sarsaparilla and nothing else that was causing the improvement. The treatment has now been under trial for over two years. There has been marked improvement in 75 per cent of patients, moderate in some, and no improvement in others.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
C. R.:—Could you please tell me if there is a cure for rheumatism of the inflammatory kind?

Answer: This was thoroughly discussed in the column recently.

H. M., Kapreskasing, Ontario: I have heard that it is not good either to poach or scramble eggs, as it kills the vitamins. Is this true?

Answer: No, the vitamins in eggs are not destroyed by heat.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

MARY DEXTER leaves Omaha to take a job in the Nordex Aircraft plant in California. She shares an apartment with...
FRAN BOND, night club singer and dancer. Friendship develops between Mary and...
KEN GRANT, young mechanical engineer, also newly employed at Nordex.

YESTERDAY: Ken and Mary visit the night club at which Fran works.

CHAPTER FIVE

BOTH MARY and Fran slept late next day. When Mary opened her eyes, still heavy with sleep, and glanced at her wrist watch she was surprised to see that it was 1:30 o'clock. From the street below rose pleasant sounds of children playing, the sharp tang of salt air filled the room and Mary could hear the soothing roar of the Pacific. From the direction of the kitchenette Fran was humming her latest feature song and the pleasant aroma of cooking made Mary feel that it was a pretty good world after all.

"Breakfast ready?" Mary called. "What do you mean, breakfast? It's past 1:30 in the afternoon. If you insist that we name it, I would say 'Brunch' would be more appropriate," Fran said with a laugh.

Mary dressed hurriedly and was just putting on the final touch of lipstick as Fran brought in a platter of scrambled eggs, toast and orange marmalade. Just as they were finishing, Ken dropped in to drive Mary to work. He immediately started to renew the argument on the war when both girls pounced on him at the same time. "We heard enough of that last night," Fran chided.

"Okay," Ken said, smiling. "One thing I do know, and that is, never to argue with a woman, especially a bossy one like you or a redhead."

On the way to the plant newsboys surrounded the car at every traffic light. Screaming headlines told blatantly of the latest war news. Ken wanted to get a paper, but Mary told him to save it until later.

"I don't care if the headlines DO look worse," she declared. "I'm getting tired of being 'cautious' and 'on my guard' at work, and talking war all night and being bombed in my sleep. What I want is a nice old-fashioned picnic on a peaceful green hilltop."

"Tomorrow's Sunday," Ken said. "Now's the time to talk about it. Might take Burke along for Fran. He seems like a good guy. We could buy one of those ready-packed lunches."

"Buy nothing!" cried Mary. "Fran and I will roast a chicken to-night and make a cake and sandwiches and all those nice old-fashioned things that make you forget there really is a war."

"Sounds fair enough. You and Fran bring the food, and Burke and I will contribute our charming personalities. Or maybe I could scare up a mess of black ants to turn loose on our food so we could have the real atmosphere of a picnic. After all, what is a picnic without ants galloping all over everything. I remember a picnic we had back home. Somebody brought a custard pie and the ants were so bad that day everyone mistook it for raisins."

Mary laughed. "You idiot, you aren't increasing my appetite for this picnic one bit with your ant stories."

As Mary and Ken rode along that white stretch of highway that led to the Nordex plant, gaily chatting and planning their picnic, neither of them realized that within a few hours the west coast was to be paralyzed by the uncertain fears of their first blackout. At nine-thirty the sirens shrieked for a total blackout.

Inside the plant, work went on as usual, but with the air charged with excitement and suspense. The windows had for weeks been painted black for an emergency like this, that most workers thought would never come. Stuffed whispering ran up and down the production line. Under the blue lights tenseness lined the faces of the workers. Some tried to pass it off lightly, to make a job of it, but deep down they all knew they were facing real danger for the first time. The Japs knew our coast line as well as we did, had air maps and photographs of every foot of it. Mary's mind went back swiftly to the paper she had signed the day she had come to work. She couldn't remember the exact wording now. It was a release of responsibility for the company in case a worker were killed while at his job. At the time it had seemed like a useless, silly thing. Just more red tape, she had thought, that was really meaningless. Now she was beginning to realize it wasn't silly at all—in fact, it was the most serious thing that had ever happened in her whole life. Strange, she thought, that she didn't want to run away. That she wanted desperately to stay right here even in the midst of danger and do her part. She'd show Burke Martin that she wasn't a "spineless little redhead." All the time Mary was bolstering up her courage in her own mind, she realized that she was really scared stiff.

"One thing I do know and that is never to argue with a woman."

The girl at the desk next to Mary looked up from her typewriter with tears brimming in her eyes. In Mary's concern for her she momentarily forgot her own troubles. "What's the trouble?" Mary whispered softly.

"Do you think they will really drop bombs?" the girl asked, almost sobbing.

The girl nodded. "Yes."

"No! Didn't you hear the radio this afternoon?"

Mary hadn't heard anything really, but she knew she had to say something comforting or the girl would go all to pieces.

"This isn't a real blackout. Just a test so people can get used to the idea."

The girl heaved a great sigh of relief and smiled thankfully at Mary.

Willie, the office boy with the well-scrubbed look, was thriving on the excitement. Every few minutes he would dart out of the office to take a look at the sky and then make a breathless report on how black everything was and how the huge searchlights were combing the skies for enemy aircraft. He made too loud an announcement to one of the workers about his being an air-raid warden and drew a dark look of reproach from Connie.

At closing time, Mary found her hands trembling as she put on her coat. Workers laughed shakily as they found themselves whispering their "goodbyes."

Connie was aglow with a tense, passionate anxiety. "They won't bomb the plant," she kept repeating. There was a tone of reverence in her voice almost like she was repeating a prayer.

As the dark stream of workers moved out of the buildings tonight and crossed the plant grounds to the tunnel, they moved sluggishly. The usual carefree lightness of their steps was gone. Without a moon to relieve the pitch darkness, the mass moved in a slow, cautious shuffle. They stumbled into each other, into the corners of buildings. Quick, nervous laughter and kidding followed each accident, but not for long. Ears were strained for sounds of planes that might be enemy. Breaths were held and then let out in tense paroxysms. There was a spreading, uncontrollable excitement—a thrilling sense of being caught in the center of a vast game of fabulous possibilities. It was one of those things that you read about and yet never actually happen. Even now to Mary there seemed an unreality about it, like she was acting in a play.

At the tunnel entrance Mary hesitated and then remembered that Ken said he had a couple of hours of overtime tonight. She went on through the tunnel and to the bus-stop. Cars were creeping by at a snail's pace, with no headlights burning. A man beside her expressed his opinions of the "stinking Japs" in eloquent terms. He struck a match and cupped his hands to light a cigarette. For an instant the match flared like a torch before Mary's face. It went out—and then suddenly she heard it—his voice, from the car stalled in the long line of traffic just in front of her.

"Hi, there, redhead! Want a lift?"

Mary moved forward. A car door swung open. An instant later she had stepped into the low-slung, gray monster beside Bruce Martin. (To Be Continued)

Washington at a Glance

By Charles P. Stewart

WASHINGTON — Recife, also known as Pernambuco, in Brazil, is due, before long, to become one of the busiest diplomatic posts Uncle Sam will need to keep super completely filled, and versatile so likewise.

The city, among the few of the neighboring republic's largest, is near the point of South America's bulge into the Atlantic, to within 1,600 miles of Vichy France's African port of Dakar, situated just where the Senegal coast bulges farthest from that continent, in the Brazilian bulge's direction.

In other words, the two towns are only a biscuit-toss apart for fast surface vessels and a still shorter distance for up-to-date aviation.

Now, nothing is much surer than that Herr Hitler plans to take Dakar over from Vichy, to utilize as an Axis base for operations against the Americas. And when he does, it follows equally naturally that Recife will be the ideal base of operations for Brazil and the United States against the Axis' Dakar forces.

To be strictly exact Recife isn't at the ultimate extremity of the South American bulge. That's at Natal instead, but Recife's harbor and other facilities are greatly superior to Natal's and the latter's mileage advantage is a mere trifle anyway. We and the Brazilians being closely allied, we can take it absolutely for granted that we'll be more than welcome by our neighbors and, as far as they're able, helped by 'em.

Our resident representative in Recife will have a busy job cut out for him, though. We have a consulate established there now, but this'll be too much of a stunt for a mere consul to handle. Yankee warships will swarm in the port's waters. Official parties will be thick ashore. Planes will be taking off and landing in big fleets daily and nightly. Our embassy will have to remain with Rio de Janeiro, the capital, as its headquarters, but the Recife chap will be required to spend a lot of his time there—a couple of calls weekly, maybe. In effect, he'll overshadow Rio, in his office right at one end of the firing line. He'll be provided, of course, with a formidable staff of assistants, including military, naval and aviation attaches, but he'll be the responsible functionary, and all the more so for not being decorated with the formal ambassadorial title.

The chances are that, as our forces begin to gain control in Dakar, he'll be required to make an occasional week-end trip thither, for the place will be an essential part of his bailiwick.

A 1,600-mile flight in a fast plane isn't any great event these days. Still, a job on two continents at once, with some hundreds of miles of ocean separating the opposite ends of it, is calculated to make the average individual wonder which one of 'em to consider headquarters.

State departmental chat's to the purport that the simplest solution of the problem will be to vest our Recife-Dakar arrangement-maker with the status of a "special diplomatic envoy," ranking as a minister rather than as an ambassador and above a consul. It's done thus sometimes.

An ambassador's social splash outclasses a minister's, but the minister frequently does more actual work than the more loftily designated ambassadorial chieftain.

Dakar to Brazil?

In this case an ambassador doesn't suit Uncle Sam's particular purpose. The United States ambassador to Brazil automatically is tied by his leg to his palatial home in Rio, attending receptions and conferring with big guns generally; he hasn't time to commute up and down the Latin American coast and across to Africa. That's the duty that our coming special diplomatic envoy will be picked for.

The assumption is that, when it's all over, Brazil will inherit Dakar.

That it will gravitate back to France isn't deemed a probability.

It will be a convenience to Brazil, though. It's a good port to call for east coast South American shipping and a very handy substitution for southern transatlantic cable communication.

That's how I got acquainted with it initially, back during the World War No. 1 period.

Argentina was ambitious to acquire it then, but the war petered out before the Argentinos succeeded in annexing it and this time the Brazilians are pretty sure to prove to have beaten 'em to it.

It's a smallish burg but geographically strategic.

Anyway, that 1,600-mile transatlantic stretch between the two continental bulges promises to be darned interesting in the next year or two.

Rich Black Cloud Aids America in War

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

(Wide World News Service)
LAWRENCE, Kan.—A gas explosion that does some good, by making the most valuable smoke cloud in the world, a mass of carbon black, has been perfected at the University of Kansas.

The new method obtains 30 pounds of carbon black from 1000 cu ft of gas; present industrial methods recover only from one-half to two pounds. The explosion also ties in with a chance to reduce the wartime shortage of chlorine.

Carbon black is used in making tires. It doubles the length of wear. Carbon black is also used for water and sugar purification in the form of activated carbon. The particles are so small, averaging one-eight-hundred-millionth of an inch in diameter, that a single cubic inch of carbon black, if spread one particle thick, would cover a field of 200 feet long and 170 feet wide.

Chlorine, a green gas sometimes called the green goddess, is a familiar war gas, city water and swimming pool purifier. It has been used in hundreds of processes, so essential that chlorine is rationed.

The exploding gas is a mixture of natural gas and chlorine. An electric spark or a hot filament without the presence of oxygen. The mixture is set off in sealed chambers, free of oxygen, arranged so that the carbon cloud settles in a collecting basin. The explosions are continuous. They yield an important byproduct, hydrochloric acid, which has a large use in acidulating oil wells in order to increase their production.

The new process was developed by Dr. George W. Stratton, professor of chemistry, and Delos E. Winkler, now a research chemist for the shell petroleum company, at Emeryville, Cal.

In order to use the carbon black explosion, industry probably must develop more resources for chlorine, and Dr. Stratton thinks Kansas has the answer to that war problem. Salt produces chlorine by a common electrical process and in central Kansas there is buried enough salt to make a wall about two miles wide and 1000 feet high, entirely around the state.

The salt deposit is close to the central Kansas oil fields and the petroleum wastes of the fields, Dr. Stratton says, will furnish cheap power for steam generators to make the electricity for chlorine. Due to low costs, he thinks the salt deposit offers Kansas an opportunity to establish an ideal chlorine industry.

BIG INCREASE IN SALES TAX RECORDED HERE

Last Week in September Shows $1,200 More Than Last Year

For the week ending September 26, sale of prepaid tax receipts in Fayette County reached nearly $1,200 more than in the same week last year, regardless of the fact that no sales of automobiles and other articles were included.

For the week the total this year was $2,984.92 compared with $1,786.67 for the week last year. This boosts the total for this year to $79,892.24 compared with $92,155.70 for the same time last year.

During the week ending September 26 all surrounding counties showed an increase except Madison and Ross counties.

In the state at large the collections for the week reached $1,090,906 compared with $1,137,721.01 last year, or a loss of $46,815.01.

Due to the loss in the state at large, a statement issued by Don H. Ebricht, Treasurer of State, says:

"Despite increased buying power, due to higher wages induced by the war emergency, Ohioans apparently are converting their money into other than regular trade channels, according to the regular weekly report of Treasurer of State Don H. Ebricht on the sale of prepaid sales tax receipts, which shows a net loss for the 32nd week of 1942."

The largest single gain is reflected in the general classification, moving up from $178,832.58 last year to $209,976.52. Food continued to remain in the higher bracket, moving from $103,991.64 to $110,465.80, with apparel jumping from $84,794.34 to $87,763.97.

Meanwhile the automotive group continued its downward trend, dropping from $160,082.29 to $72,248.65, followed by the furniture classification which skidded from $75,350.33 to $55,226.69 while the building group moved down from $99,767.37 to $61,973.52.

Chain store, however, moved back into the gain column, with receipts of $343,147.90 as compared with $314,414.23 during the identical week of last year, with miscellaneous also showing a gain of from $166,509.47 to $191,367.86, the report shows.

Skating Vanities for Columbus

Symphony in Pink, a production of Skate Vanities, the musical extravaganza makes its debut in the Columbus Auditorium on Friday and continues through October 18, including two Sunday matinees.

The Symphony in Pink production number, is a very expensive set. The costumes for each girl costing $150 each plus two beautiful pink ostrich feather fans which cost $50, each. This number meets with the hearty approval of the audiences where we have played.

The routines of the chorus makes a spectacle with the lighting effects making it even more glamorous.

Amazing way for "run-down" people to get new vitality... pep!

A truly marvelous change can be brought about in miserable digestive complaints, underweight, weakness, loss of appetite, by two important steps:

1 - Promote the flow of vital digestive juices in the stomach

2 - Energize your body with

RICH, RED BLOOD!

If you are one of those unfortunates who have worked under a strain, failed to eat the proper foods, have been vexed by overtaxing worries, or have suffered with colds, the flu, or other illness... yet have no organic trouble or focal infection... and your red-blood-cells have become reduced in vitality and number... if your stomach digestion refuses to work properly, then here is what should help you!

S.S.S. Tonic is especially designed to build up blood strength when deficient... and to promote those stomach juices which digest the food so your body can make proper use of it in rebuilding worn-out tissue. These two important results enable you to enjoy the food you do eat... to make use of it as Nature intended. Thus you may get new vitality... pep... become animated... more attractive!

Build Sturdy Health

that the Doctors may better serve our Fighting Forces

Thousands and thousands of users have testified to the benefits S.S.S. Tonic has brought to them and scientific research shows that it gets results—that's why so many say "S.S.S. Tonic builds sturdy health—makes you feel like yourself again." As drug stores in 10 and 20 oz. sizes. © S.S.S. Co.

S.S.S. helps build STURDY HEALTH

OUR MEN NEED TANK, SHIPS AND GUNS. THE STEEL FOR THESE MUST BE MADE FROM 50% SCRAP METAL. BUT THE NATION'S STEEL MILLS DON'T HAVE ENOUGH SCRAP ON HAND TO LAST EVEN 30 DAYS MORE! KEEP 'EM RUNNING. HELP BUILD UP A HUGE SCRAP STOCKPILE—THE BIGGER THE BETTER.

NOTICE:—If you are willing to give this scrap metal as a war contribution—call the City Hall—Phone 33151—tell what you have and where it is. A truck will be sent to pick it up as quickly as possible.

Go down into your basement—your store-room. Climb up to the attic, too. Look at the unused stuff you're sure to find, and realize how important these odds and ends can be.

Important to a kid half way around the world. Important to a blue-clad gob—to a flyer, racing to reach the target before some knifing Messerschmitt can find its mark. That old metal means steel for these men. And steel means armor plate for safety—weapons and ships for Victory.

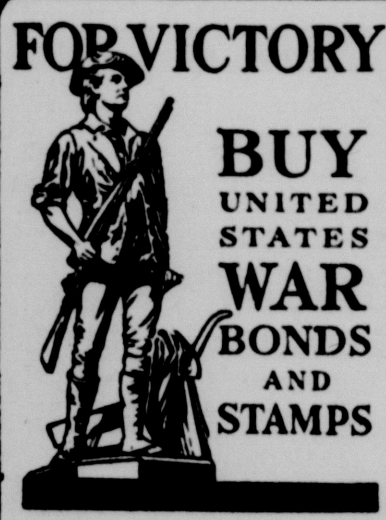

Without it they'll die. They're not afraid of that—but it's better to give a life for a cause than to be sacrificed by thoughtlessness. And it's better yet to live, knowing that the folks back home didn't let them down.

And we won't let them down! A big scrap collection drive is now on in Washington C. H. and Fayette County—and you're going to help make it a good one. Don't let up because you see a full junk yard or a brimming salvage depot. That's the way they've got to be to make sure the mills won't run out!

YOUR NEGLECT MAY COST SOME BRAVE BOY'S LIFE!

NOTICE:—If you have collected scrap metal and want to sell it—take it to one of the salvage yards in the city at once.

Three Organizations of Baptist Church Entertained At Home of Mr., Mrs. Wood

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wood were very gracious in entertaining three organizations comprising 60 members from First Baptist Church Tuesday afternoon and evening at their home. The pleasant affair began at four o'clock with the missionary ladies holding their well planned program under the direction of Mrs. J. R. Robinson.

After a business session conducted by Mrs. Harvey Jackson, president of the organization, program highlights were a reading by Mrs. W. H. Wilson on migrant work, an organ solo by Miss Mary Elizabeth Wood and a talk by Miss Bernice O'Brien on Dr. Fossick's Riverside Church, in New York City, which she attended while in school at Columbia University. Mrs. H. B. Twining closed the program with a solo, "The Lord's Prayer," by Mellott.

At six-thirty, the missionary meeting dove-tailed into a joint hamburger fry with the Brotherhood and Victoria classes of First Baptist Sunday School on the Wood's spacious lawn, after which the two classes assembled in the Wood home having joint devotional services, separating for their business meetings.

Those assisting Mrs. Wood in hostess duties were: Mrs. Walter McLean, Mrs. Pearl Baughn, Mrs. Ernest Brookover, Mrs. Hoppess, Mrs. Raymond Godfrey, Mrs. Lawson Wells, Mrs. O. T. Mossbarger, Mrs. Gertie Gault and Mrs. Nellie Crone.

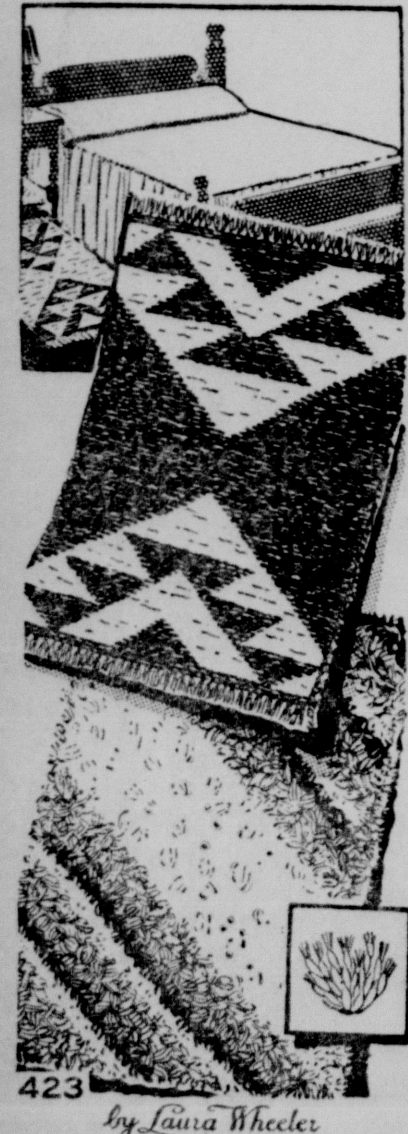

Mrs. Max Thomas Is Hostess to Tuesday Club

Always a charming and gracious hostess, Mrs. Max Thomas added another lovely party to the calendar of the Tuesday bridge club at her attractive home in Jeffersonville. Combining the pleasures of the club with a pretty handkerchief shower for Mrs. Aileen R. Smith, a member who is leaving to make her home in Florida, Mrs. Thomas added several guests with the club members.

A beautiful course luncheon was served at one o'clock, the hostess seating the guests at two long tables which were artistically centered with attractive watergardens of flat floating flowers. The luncheon hour was interspersed with congenial visiting, at the close of which was the handkerchief shower. Mrs. Smith received many pretty gifts to which she responded most graciously.

An interesting bridge game provided the afternoon's pleasures, with high scores for the three tables at play going to Mrs. Willard Perrill, Mrs. Ralph Lloyd and Mrs. Charles Hire. Guests included with the club members were: Mrs. Earl Gidding, Mrs. Robert Craig and Miss Naomi Shoop, of Chicago, Illinois.

"BETTER THAN ICE CREAM"

Their elopement halted by police, 14-year-old Jean Register of Marlton, N. J., and Arthur Ralston, 21, Philadelphia truck driver, are pictured above in Philadelphia. Police stopped them as they attempted to buy railroad tickets. Jean, a seventh grade pupil, asserted that "I love Hank better than ice cream." Ralston said, "When I met her two years ago, it was love at first sight. I never had a girl before."

Laymon and Wilkin Win at Lexington in 2:10

-Spying- On Sports

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Looks as if the football rules, frozen for the duration, will have to be defrosted. The new shift Dick Harlow uncovered at Harvard makes the offensive ruling look rather silly and Lou Little, head of the coaches' advisory committee, will ask to have it changed.

Race-hoss experts point out that the ban on special trains to the tracks is making the horse players walk both ways—instead of just walking home.

Johnny On The Spot

A lot of guys would be willing to give the shirts off their backs to help win the war, but the Reds' Johnny Vander Meer did it. After pitching a benefit exhibition game in Jersey the other day, Johnny contributed the shirt of his baseball uniform to be raffled off. It went to the day's biggest war bond buyer.

Lieut. Commander Bill Reinhart, former George Washington U. athletic director, once recommended Stan Musial to the Yankees after he failed to get him for the G. W. basketball team, but by the time a Yank scout arrived the Cards already had signed him.

Big Ten Test Faces Illini On Saturday

CHICAGO, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Western Conference football experts, having made up their minds on the possibilities of just about every league contender except Illinois, expect to complete their championship indexing this week when the Illini's first non-Zuppke-coached team in 30 years tackles Minnesota.

They've once more tabbed Minnesota, conference winner four times in the last five years, as the team to beat. The consensus is that Michigan, Ohio State and Northwestern will take up the challenge. The rest of the teams have been relegated to the rank of outsiders.

In games against South Dakota and Butler, Illinois scored 113 points, rolled up 862 yards from scrimmage and their goal line remains untouched.

Max Shapiro After Title

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 7.—(AP)—The myth of Bobcat Bob Montgomery's greatness was exploded last night, and today, in squat, game little Maxie Shapiro, a tough guy from New York's east side, the fight world hails a new ranking contender for the throne of lightweight champion Sammy Angott.

The flashy Negro bobcat, who whipped Lew Jenkins in a non-title bout when Jenkins wore the crown, was battered to unexpected defeat by Milling Maxie, a 5 to 1 underdog, in 10 riotous rounds.

Shapiro won by a split decision, referee Benny Leonard casting the deciding vote. He weighed in at 134 3/4, a quarter pound less than the Philadelphian.

Chisox Win City Crown

CHICAGO, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Winning the Chicago City Series is still strictly a White Sox habit. The American League's did it again last night at Comiskey Park, defeating the National League Cubs, 4 to 1, to score their eighth straight city championship.

Johnny Humphries turned back the Northsiders with five hits. Lon Warneke attempted to stop the Sox, but gave way after pitching the first five innings.

Johnny Beazley Knows His Cards

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 7.—(AP)—At a hotstove league session here last winter, Johnny Beazley was called upon for a few words.

The Cardinal rookie arose and haltingly said:

"The Cardinals have nineteen pitchers in the roster they're taking to spring training this year, so you see what I'm up against."

"Well, all I can say is that if I don't make their ball club this year they'll have the best pitching staff in the world."

Where Man and Colt Met
Just Year Ago

Harold Laymon and his sensational colt Wilkin, dispelled all doubts about their ability to hold their own in the big time of harness horse racing when they romped home to win the $500 two-year-old pace at Lexington Tuesday in the good time of 2:10 and 2:12 1/2.

In making their debut on the mile track, the Washington C. H. pair of newcomers to the sport picked the place where they first met and formed their successful team to do it. It was just about a year ago that Laymon went to Lexington with a little cash and a love of harness horses, but—and he is the first to admit it—very little knowledge of horses or experience in picking or training them. He saw Wilkin with a sale tag on him and he fell in love with the chunky little bay youngster. He waited and waited for him to be led to the auction ring, wondering whether he had picked a colt that would be within his reach when the bidding by the monied sportsmen started. His luck held, for apparently Wilkin was overlooked by biggies and he went to Laymon for an amount he figured he could afford to pay. He brought him home and the two started to develop together. Laymon, who had acquired only the rudiments of horse training, understood the task of bringing his youngster up to the ways of racing. He went slowly with him and when the time came to face the starter for the first time at Marion early in the summer, veteran horsemen agreed he was one of the best mannered colts they had seen in many a day.

Not content to be merely an owner or even an owner-trainer, Laymon got himself some colors and also became a driver.

Starting with a straight heat win, the team was not beaten until they had won seven consecutive heats. Then came their downfall at Xenia, followed by a double loss at Wilmington the following week. But, they profited by their mistakes and bounced back into form and more victories.

When they went back to the barn to "cool out" at Lexington Wednesday, the record for Laymon and Wilkin stood at 18 heats won against only five lost, and in most of those they were second.

While Laymon did not pit his colt against the best at Lexington—where the best in the country had gathered—he was racing against some better-than-average youngsters, horsemen are quick to point out.

Whether they will come back from Lexington and begin the winter's rest was still uncertain. There is still the Fairfield County Fair at Lancaster left for them but Laymon has not yet said whether he intends to go there to ring down the curtain for the year.

7 Bobs on Squad Confuse Coach

CHICAGO, Oct. 7.—(AP)—When Coach Whitney Cronin yells "Bob" to his squad of Leo High School gridders, seven boys—including the co-captains—answer him. A couple of Bobs also have the same surname, Kelly, so to make the name-calling less confusing Cronin has designated one of the Kellys "Tony."

SOFTBALL PAYS DIVIDENDS HERE

The YM-YW not only kept out of the red with its softball program but showed a profit as well during the past summer.

That was disclosed when the joint board of directors checked up on the many-sided activities of the past three months and then went ahead with the task of drafting a program for the days ahead to fit it to school days.

The profit in dollars and cents was not large—only $60.69. But, the directors figure that as only a small part of the softball profit. The big dividends were paid, in their estimation, in the recreation the amost nightly games provided for the men and women who had spent the days at hard work and needed some relaxation. This, of course, they point out, is in addition to the fun the boys and girls had.

However, for the city's youth most attention was focused on the recreation program carried out at Gardner Park under the supervision of Miss Amelia Pensyl. There the boys and girls gathered every day by the score for all kinds of games, both in the club house and outside.

Now that the summer vacation is over and the boys and girls are back in school, the YM-YW directors are making many changes in their recreation program so as not to overlap or conflict with that of the schools.

It was brought out at the meeting of the joint board that Washington C. H. was one of the few cities in this section where softball survived and the interest held up last summer. Several cities, some larger and some smaller, it was said, launched similar programs but had to give them up when the interest lagged to such an extent that they were no longer feasible, let alone self-supporting.

Sports of Field and Stream Here Feeling Effects of War

The call of the outdoors apparently is as strong as ever in wartime but there are not as many men here in Fayette County to answer the call.

That, in effect, sums up the impressions of a cross section of dealers in sporting goods in Washington C. H., most of whom carry pretty complete lines of fishing tackle and hunting equipment.

Although there is no way to check accurately the number of fishing licenses issued in the county during the past summer, a hit-and-miss survey of places where they are available indicates there has been very little, if any, decrease from totals of recent years. Fishing licenses are issued not only at the office of the county clerk of courts but also by township clerks and stores who have had deputies appointed to serve the state division of conservation. There is not even any list of license dispensers in the county available.

The sale of fishing tackle, it was pointed out, has held up surprisingly well here in view of the number of young men who have gone into the armed forces. Then, too, there was the impression that many men who found time to slip away from their work for a little fishing before the war are now too busy working in war production factories.

The effects of the war—both because of men in the service and in war work—are expected to be more noticeable during the coming hunting season. Bedford F. Carpenter, manager of

'Strangler' Lewis Wants To Be Commando; He's Jiu-Jitsued Some Japs in His Time

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Ed "Strangler" Lewis, the bone-crusher who has wrestled 6,000 matches, claimed the world's record five times and begun a comeback at 51, is about to give it all up now—and start breaking up Japs.

The Strangler, just a shadow of his former self at 290 pounds, came here for an exhibition battle and said he wanted to be a commando.

If Uncle Sam rules him out, he added, he'll ask permission to teach soldiers jiu-jitsu on the theory that "once they see how simple it is, they won't worry about the Japs using it on them."

Lewis said he "played a

No Let-up for Blue Lions With Tigers Coming Friday

Without the vibrant yelling of eager football fans as an inspiration, the small but tough Blue Lions of WHS continued their practicing in preparation for the football season's most talked of game which comes around this Friday night, when the Blue Lions are to be hosts to their old rivals, the Greenfield McClain Tigers.

After knocking off their first foe in the SCL loop, the Lions are all steamed up to try for a win from the Tigers. The blue and white outfit is at present tied for first place in the SCL with the Circlevillians.

The small but scrappy WHS boys are still at the practicing, which will help them give their followers better football.

The Lions were put through their regular routine Tuesday evening under the watchful eyes of their mentors, Jerry Kissell and George Miraben. The practice consisted of the elements which help win a ball game, namely running, passing, tackling and blocking. And last but not least, the exercises which put a football team in good condition, Coach Kissell's tough calisthenics, which include "riding the bicycle," push ups, lying flat on your back

That Extra Something!

...You can spot it every time

TO DO a special kind of service takes that extra something. Coca-Cola does a special service to thirst because it has that extra something, too. More than just quenching thirst, ice-cold Coca-Cola brings energy-giving refreshment that you feel... and enjoy.

And Coca-Cola brings you the deliciousness of its clean, exciting taste. A finished art in its making blends special, wholesome flavor-essences to merge all the other ingredients into a unique taste all its own. No one can duplicate it.

To think of refreshment is to think of ice-cold Coca-Cola. Its quality, taste and refreshing goodness set this original drink apart from all others.

It's natural for popular names to acquire friendly abbreviations. That's why you hear Coca-Cola called Coke. Coca-Cola and Coke mean the same thing... the real thing... a single thing coming from a single source, and well known to the community.

While you're exchanging pictures, why not exchange your thirst for an ice-cold Coca-Cola. You'll go for the sparkling goodness of its delicious taste and you'll welcome its after-sense of refreshment.

found a number of enemy dead whose bodies bore no gunfire wounds. It was theorized they died either from illness or starvation after being cut off by the Allied advance which now is in its tenth day.

There was no indication that the entire Japanese forces in the area were suffering from illness, however, and the success of their withdrawal was interpreted to mean that while they might be on reduced rations they still are able to move in fair order.

At one time, the Japanese had advanced within 32 airline miles of Port Moresby.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur was disclosed to have taken the field in the New Guinea battle sector. Major developments in the vast Pacific conflict:

Aleutian Islands — American fighter pilots who never saw Japanese planes in the air before September 1 have finished their first month of combat against the invaders with the spectacular average of 22 enemy planes downed for every American lost, it was announced officially.

Japan — A Japanese naval spokesman, broadcasting over the Tokyo radio, warned the Japanese people today that the United States was building long-range flying fortresses capable of bombing Japan from such island bases as Midway and the Aleutians.

The spokesman said the new fortresses had a 10-mile flight range and declared that with the United States piling up an astronomical quantity of weapons, "the war is just beginning."

GRAIN MARKET NEWS SUMMARY

CHICAGO, Oct. 7.—(P)—Wheat prices fluctuated within a range of slightly less than a cent a bushel today, winding up with little net change.

Narrow fluctuations also characterized trading in other cereals as grain trading, coming virtually to a standstill much of the time, awaited clarification of the price control situation. Milling trade reports indicated business was stalemated by confusion over the flour ceiling and this was reflected in the wheat trade. There was still no indication that definite ceiling prices would be announced for grains at this time and some traders expressed belief the government may try to continue control of the markets through its loan program.

Wheat closed 1/4c lower to 1/4c higher compared with yesterday, December 1.26-1.25 1/2, May 1.20-1.28 1/2; corn 3/4c down, December 82 1/2-1/2c, May 86 1/2c; oats 1/4c off; soybeans 3/4c down; rye 1/4c lower.

Late selling, part of which represented hedges against increased country sales and liquidation associated with the coming harvest, carried corn to new lows for the session.

CLEVELAND STADIUM TO GO TO WAR TOO

CLEVELAND, Oct. 7.—(P)—Two of Cleveland's most prized stadium—soon will go into war service, along with the city's downtown lakefront.

The army air force will take over these properties in about a month for establishment of a maintenance school, it was announced by Col. J. H. Mertz, automotive officer of the Air Service Command.

Stadium concourses will house equipment, but this will not interfere with the $2,600,000 structure's use for sports events

COLUMBUS CURFEW

COLUMBUS, Oct. 7.—(P)—A city ordinance prohibiting the sale of liquor and beer after midnight will go into effect Nov. 4. The city council over-rode Mayor

Floyd F. Green's veto of the ordinance.

LEGAL NOTICE

Court of Common Pleas, Fayette County, Ohio.
Ethel Conley, Plaintiff, vs. Charlie Conley, Defendant.
Charlie Conley, whose place of residence is unknown, will take notice that on the 8th day of September, 1942, the Plaintiff filed her petition in the Court of Common Pleas of Fayette County, Ohio, State of Ohio, alleging that the Plaintiff and defendant are married and that the defendant, Charlie Conley, abandoned her without good cause on the first day of September, 1942, threatening to sell and dispose of his property described in the petition and that unless restrained he will dispose of said property.
The prayer of the petition is for Alimony and injunction restraining the defendant from disposing of said property and other equitable relief.
This cause will be heard on or after the 23rd day of October, 1942.
A. B. SIMON, Attorney for Plaintiff
